

Amy DeLouise Director/Producer/Author/Speaker

Video director/producer Amy DeLouise is an expert at creating high-impact nonfiction digital content. With more than 400 productions to her credit, Amy is a leader in the field of short form digital storytelling for large surfaces at live events as well as small screens for mobile web delivery. She has garnered more than 40 creative excellence awards including multiple Telly Awards, Peer Awards, New York Festivals, Aurora, and the CINE Golden Eagle. She was also honored with the Woman of Vision Leadership Award from Women in Film & Video (WIFV) of Washington, D.C. for her leadership in the industry.

A long-time champion of women media-makers and an entrepreneur who has run several media businesses, Amy is currently spearheading WIFV's innovative pop-up event, #GalsNGear, focused on building community and creating new opportunities for greater gender balance in media production.

Amy is a sought-after speaker at conferences such as GV Expo, CCW, and NAB Show. She has popular online courses (www.Lynda.com/AmyDeLouise) including a new title on Script Writing for Nonfiction Video, and her well-regarded The Art of the Video Interview. Her new book The Producer's Playbook: Real People on Camera (Focal Press/Routledge) brings tips and real-world strategies to video producers working with non-actors in front of the camera for everything from documentaries and reality TV to web videos and testimonials (available here.)

Amy has a B.A. in English from Yale University. For more resources and tips from Amy, visit her website at www.amydelouise.com.
